And for 1929 ~ a Better
Gladiolus Garden

Wouldn't you like to have a "Glad" like this in Your garden

INDIANA

A. E. Kunderd,
Goshen, Indiana

Gentlemen:

Enclosed find a snapshot taken in my Gladiolus bed. This picture I especially prize as it shows one of the finest flowers I have ever grown. This is a Dr. Nelson Shook.

When I received my order of bulbs last spring I was more than pleased as to size and quality. The tall spike as shown in the picture stands just 5-ft. 9-in. tall and with side spikes it had forty-four flowers on it. In the many varieties I have I think that Dr. Nelson Shook stands supreme as to beauty, color and size.

In conclusion will say that all other varieties did wonderful.

Gentlemen:

Enclosed find picture of my Dr. Nelson Shook which was printed in my newspaper last week. The Gladiolus spike had fifty-four flowers and grew over 6 feet tall. Wish to say that this is an exceptionally fine variety and worthy of having in any garden.

Gentlemen:

I grow for pleasure and as a hobby, 350 named varieties of Glads. About 40 whites. But when your "Marie Kunderd" came into bloom last week the other whites looked somewhat passe. We also grow 70 other Kunderd varieties. Dr. Nelson Shook is "superb." How anyone could rate a Glad higher than Dr. Nelson Shook and Marie Kunderd (in their class) is beyond me. It looks as if some of the leaders in the . . . symposium are pretenders to the Kingship among Glads.
